Welcome to the public archive for Lochgelly Community Council. This website was established to disseminate documents and local data that the public have a right to know. The site is not affiliated with the LCC and is managed by volunteers from Loch of Shining Waters.

All documents on this site have been collated from many sources including what is publicly available, freedom of information, and other third party sources. The purpose of the site is to provide unrestricted access to data relating to Lochgelly community council that should automatically be available and easily accessible in the public domain.

What is the role of Community Councils? The Community Council's aim is to engage with and represent all people in the area without prejudice: they are non-sectarian and non-party political. The Community Council will call for nominations publicly and if necessary hold contested elections.

All Community Council meetings are open to the public
